

KEEPS POISON SECRET DESPITE POLICE TORTURE

Woman Suspected of Murdering Whole Family Withstands All Tests,

TO PRODUCE WOOL

Mrs. Carey Will Be Dramatically Confronted by Alleged Cause of Acts.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Bridget Carey, the little woman held in Moyamensing Prison on suspicion that she poisoned her husband, their two children and two other persons for insurance amounting to less than $1,000 on their lives, and for the love of a neighbor who is a former United States marine, will be suddenly and dramatically confronted by this alleged sweet-heart in her cell to-day, the police say, and they hope this meeting will compel her to give way and make a statement. While she has at times been almost hysterical, she has refused to talk and has stood the inquisitorial efforts of Detective Miller and other officers with a nerve that has astonished all. For hours she was questioned and threatened by detectives last night to no avail. She would simply say: "I am innocent of any crime. You may do your worst." The officers plotted the death of her babies times without number, and then, in the dimly lighted cell, told of scaffold and hangman's rope which awaited her if she did not confess, to all of which she only replied: "I am innocent."

Lawyer Says It Is a Mistake. Two of her relatives visited her and cheered her by their boundless confidence in her. Her attorney, John R. K. Scott, has issued a statement in which he says the police are making a terrible mistake, and that his client will speedily prove herself guiltless, if the police will give her a chance.

Coroner Jermon says he may not be able to conclude the autopsy and may request for two weeks, though he may start the latter to-morrow. The police are hunting for the insurance agent who wrote the policies for Mrs. Carey on at least nine persons' lives. They are not sure whether one agent wrote them all, but are inclined to believe so.

Poison Bought by "B. Carey." They say they have found that "B. Carey, No. 142 Hamilton street," went three miles farther than was necessary to buy the stuff with which they claim Patrick and Cecilia Cook and the two Carey children were killed. They also allege they are on the track of other persons said to have their lives insured for the benefit of Mrs. Carey. The insurance companies concerned have so far refused to permit the police to obtain any information from their books concerning the different policies.

Edward Carey, the prisoner's three-year-old son, the only survivor of the family except the mother, is insured, the police allege, for $100 for the benefit of Mrs. Carey. Chief of Detectives Donaghy declares Mrs. Carey is the most extraordinary woman he ever saw. He was one of the officers who put her through the harrowing "third degree," and he says she never flinched for an instant or shed a tear or made a sign that would guide him in forming an opinion. Physicians in the Coroner's office say they have found traces of arsenical poison in the candied fruits taken from the home of Mrs. Carey when she was arrested, but they have not been able to determine whether the poison was in sufficient quantities to cause death. Prof. William Marshall, of the University of Pennsylvania, is making a test of the fruit to positively decide this important fact. The police say this alleged poisoned stuff will go far toward completing the case they have made out against the woman.

MIZNER SAYS WIFE WAS NOT WED DRUGGED.

Californian Who Married Widow of Charles T. Yerkes Denies Story of Lawyer.

Wilson Mizner denied to-day the report from Chicago that his wife, the quondam Mrs. Yerkes, was preparing to bring divorce proceedings against him on the ground that she was drugged when she was married to him. "The story is absurd," said the elegant young man. "It is a case of lawyers trying to stir up trouble for their own benefit. Everybody acquainted with the circumstances knows my wife was not drugged. It will be up to me to make a few statements, and when I do these lawyers will be sorry they said anything."

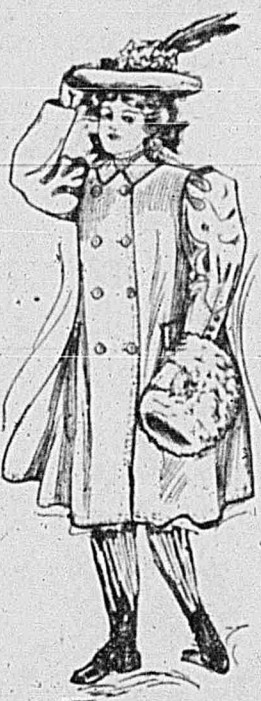

William M. Johnson, formerly counsel for the Yerkes traction interests, is authorized for the statement that Mizner's wife did not know that she was doing when she married him.
